

India Development Report

1997

Edited by Kirit S. Parikh

INDIRA GANDHI INSTITUTE OF DEVELOPMENT RESEARCH

Oxford University Press

Contents

-1. Overview: Prospects and Retrospect	1
Kirit S. Parikh
1.1 The Setting and the Issues	1
1.2 The Macroeconomic Scene: Assessment and Outlook	2
1.3 Inflation, Exchange and Interest Rates: Closely Intertwined	4
1.4 Poverty and Public Policy: A Mixed Record	4
1.5 The Energy Sector: The Required Reforms	6
1.5.1 The Coal Sector	7
1.5.2 The Hydrocarbon Sector	7
1.5.3 Non-conventional Energy Sector	8
1.6 The Environment: Can Neglect No Longer	8
1.7 Agriculture and Rural Development: Stocks, Subsidies and Food Security	10
1.8 Industry: Coping with New Challenges	12
1.9 Labour Policy: Striking a Balance	14
1.10 Securities Markets: Towards Greater Efficiency	15
1.11 Banking: In a Deregulated Environment	17
1.12 Transport: A Crucial Infrastructure	18
1.13 Telecommunication: Monopoly vs Competition	20
1.14 Other Issues	21
1.14.1 The Role of Planning	21
1.14.2 Centre-State Relations	23
1.14.3 The Consequences of Political Uncertainty	24
1.15 In Conclusion	25
2. Macroeconomic Scene: Assessment and Outlook	27
Manoj K. Panda and Kirit S. Parikh
2.1 The Backdrop	27
2.2 Macro Developments	27
2.2.1 Growth Recovery	27
2.2.2 Inflation	29
2.2.3 Savings and Investment	29
2.2.4 Fiscal Developments	30
2.2.5 International Trade	31
2.2.6 Monetary and Credit Policy	34
2.3 Scenarios for 1996-97	35
2.3.1 Current Indicators	35
2.3.2 A Conservative Scenario	36
2.3.3 Higher Growth Scenarios	37

2.4	An Overall Assessment of the Growth Process	37
2.4.1	Some Key Questions	37
2.4.2	Has There Been Efficiency Gain?	38
2.4.3	Can the Economy Grow Faster?	38
2.4.4	Will Higher Growth be Sustainable?	39
3.	Inflation, Exchange and Interest Rates: A Macroeconomic 'Rashomon'	41
	Ashima Goyal
3.1	Introduction	41
3.2	Events	43
3.3	The Macrostructure of the Indian Economy	45
3.3.1	Government Borrowings	45
3.3.2	The Relationship between Monetary and Fiscal Authorities	46
3.3.3	Is Growth Led by Domestic Savings or Investment?	47
3.3.4	Can Policies that Encourage Rapid Growth Lower Inflation?	48
3.3.5	Expectations and the Monetary Transmission Mechanism	50
3.4	Open Economy Issues	51
3.4.1	The Twin Deficits and Investment	51
3.4.2	Liquidity, Exchange and/or Interest Rate Overshooting	53
3.5	Financial Reforms and Interest Rates	54
3.5.1	Banks and Interest Rates	54
3.5.2	Interest Rate Fluctuations and Term Structure of Assets and Liabilities	55
3.5.3	The Importance of Monetary Policy when Financial Markets are Not Fully Integrated	56
3.5.4	Does Easy Liquidity Encourage Speculative Activity?	57
3.6	Conclusion	59
4.	Poverty and Public Policy: A Mixed Record	61
	S. Mahendra Dev and Ajit Ranade
4.1	Introduction	61
4.2	Estimation of Poverty: Approaches	61
4.3	Poverty Before and After Reforms	62
4.3.1	Post-reform Period	63
4.3.2	Did Economic Reforms Affect Poverty?	65
4.3.3	Regional Disparities	65
4.4	Other Evidence on Poverty-related Indicators	65
4.4.1	Hunger: How Many Get Two Square Meals a Day?	65
4.4.2	Per Capita Net Availability of Foodgrains	66
4.4.3	Trends in Wages for Agricultural Labourers	66
4.4.4	Trends in Unemployment Rates	66
4.5	Safety Nets for the Poor	67
4.5.1	Public Distribution System	67
4.5.2	Rural Works Programmes	68
4.5.3	Access to Information and Social Mobilisation	70
4.6	Non-Income Poverty Indicators and Policies	70

4.6.1	Indicators of Human Development and Qualitative Changes	70
4.6.2	The Poor and the Environment	73
4.6.3	Need for Changes in Anti-poor Government Laws and Policies	73
4.7	Summing Up	73
5.	Energy System: Need for New Momentum	77
	Iyoti Parikh, Kankar Bhattacharya, B. Sudhakar Reddy and Kirit S. Parikh
5.1	The Power Sector in India	77
5.1.1	The Nature of Problem	77
5.1.2	Why are the State Electricity Boards (SEBs) Financially Sick?	78
5.1.3	What are the Possible Solutions?	78
5.1.4	Energy Conservation Can Help a Lot, Quickly	82
5.2	The Coal Sector in India	84
5.2.1	The Background	84
5.2.2	What are the Problems?	85
5.2.3	Policy Objectives	86
5.3	The Indian Hydro-carbon Sector	87
5.3.1	The Oil Sector: The Present Situation	87
5.3.2	Problem Areas	88
5.3.3	Need for Deregulation	90
5.3.4	Natural Gas Policy: A Burning Issue	90
5.4	The Non-Conventional Energy Sector in India	91
5.4.1	Biogas	91
5.4.2	Wind Energy	92
5.4.3	Solar Energy	92
5.5	Climate Change and India's Energy Policy	92
5.5.1	North-South Transfers for Climate Change	93
5.6	Concluding Remarks	93
6.	Environment: Can Neglect No Longer	95
	Vijay Laxmi, Iyoti Parikh and Kirit S. Parikh
6.1	Air Quality	95
6.1.1	Urban Air Quality	95
6.1.2	Rural Air Quality and Energy Consumption	97
6.2	Water Quality, Sanitation and Health	98
6.3	Solid Waste Management	101
6.4	Nature Conservation	101
6.4.1	Forest Cover	102
6.4.2	Soil Degradation	104
6.4.3	Preservation of Flora and Fauna	104
7.	Agriculture and Rural Development: Stocks, Subsidies and Food Security	107
	Ajit Ranade and S. Mahendra Dev
7.1	Introduction	107
7.2	The New Economic Policy and Agriculture	107

7.3	Are Agricultural Subsidies Really Unsustainable?	108
7.4	Current Agricultural Output Performance	111
7.5	Excessive Buffer Stocks: Problem of Plenty	111
7.6	Declining Investment in Agriculture	113
7.7	Trade Related Reforms: Prospects for Exports and Agro-processing	114
7.8	PDS Offtake	114
7.9	Impact of Rural Development and Safety Net Programmes	116
8.	Industry: Coping with New Challenges	123
	Anindya Sen, Subrata Sarkar and Rajendra R. Vaidya
8.1	Introduction	123
8.2	Recent Trends	123
8.2.1	Recovery . . .	123
8.2.2	. . . and Relapse?	125
8.2.3	An Optimistic View	126
8.2.4	Resource Crunch and Remedies	126
8.3	Swadeshi vs Videshi	129
8.3.1	Role of Private Foreign Direct Investment	129
8.3.2	Economic Nationalism in the Political Agenda	130
8.3.3	New Policies towards FDI	132
8.3.4	The New Nationalism	132
8.3.5	The New Nationalism vis-à-vis the Old	133
8.3.6	The Trends	134
8.3.7	Joint Ventures vs Fully-owned Subsidiaries	136
8.3.8	Some Success Stories, and Lessons	137
8.3.9	'What Is To Be Done?'	139
8.4	Takeovers: No Miracle Fix	140
8.4.1	The Indian Scenario	142
8.4.2	The Bhagwati Committee Draft Takeover Code	143
8.4.3	Some Other Issues	144
8.4.4	Postscript	146
8.5	The MAT	147
8.5.1	The Zero-Tax Paying Companies	147
8.5.2	Planning for Tax Avoidance	147
8.5.3	And the Punishment Must Fit the Crime	148
8.5.4	Would MAT Put Them on the Mat?	148
8.6	The Performance of PSEs: Defending the Turf	149
9.	Labour Policy: Striking a Balance	155
	Pradeep Agrawal
9.1	Introduction	155
9.2	Growth of Employment and Real Earnings per Employee: An International Comparison	156
9.3	Labour Policies in India: A Comparison with East Asia	158
9.3.1	Laws Relating to Forming Labour Unions	159

9.3.2	Laws Relating to Industrial Relations	159
9.3.3	The Job Security Laws	161
9.3.4	Determination of Wages	163
9.3.5	Bonus: The Flexible Wage System	164
9.4	Conclusion	164
10.	Securities Markets: Towards Greater Efficiency	167
	Ajay Shah and Susan Thomas
10.1	Importance of Markets in the Financial System	167
10.1.1	Resource Allocation: Role of Banks and Markets	167
10.1.2	Banks and Markets in India	168
10.1.3	Banks and Markets: Healthy Competition	170
10.1.4	The Stock Market and Long-term Growth	170
10.2	Features of Healthy Markets	171
10.3	Evolution of India's Secondary Market	172
10.3.1	Key Events in 1994-96	172
10.3.2	Key Events in the Future	176
10.3.3	In Summary: Transactions Costs	181
10.4	Foreign Portfolio Investment	182
10.4.1	Euro Market vs FII Inflows	182
10.4.2	Why Do Foreign Investors Buy Indian Stock?	183
10.4.3	Has the Correlation Changed after 1992?	184
10.4.4	Why Do FII Inflows Matter?	185
10.5	The IPO Market	186
10.6	The Debt Market	188
10.7	In Conclusion	190
11.	Banking: The Challenges of Deregulation	193
	Jayati Sarkar and Pradeep Agrawal
11.1	Introduction	193
11.2	Structure and Evolution of Indian Banking	194
11.3	Banking Sector Reforms	196
11.4	Impact of the Reforms	199
11.4.1	Comparative Performance of Major Bank Groups Since Reforms	199
11.4.2	Availability of Credit	202
11.4.3	Interest Rate Trends	205
11.4.4	Bank vs Non-Bank Intermediation	205
11.4.5	Competition and Efficiency	206
11.5	Current Policy Issues	209
11.5.1	Liberalisation and High Real Interest Rates	209
11.5.2	Priority Sector Lending	211
11.5.3	The Case for Privatisation	212
11.6	Concluding Remarks	214
12.	Transport: A Crucial Infrastructure	219
	R. Ramanathan

CONTENTS

12.1	Overall Performance	219
12.2	Rail Transport	220
12.2.1	Problem Areas	220
12.2.2	Recent Developments	221
12.2.3	Further Policy Directions	222
12.3	Roads and Road Transport	223
12.3.1	Problem Areas	223
12.3.2	Recent Developments	225
12.3.3	Further Policy Directions	226
12.4	Urban Transport	227
12.4.1	Problem Areas	229
12.4.2	Recent Developments	229
12.4.3	Further Policy Directions	229
12.5	Civil Aviation	230
12.5.1	Problem Areas	231
12.5.2	Recent Developments	233
12.5.3	Further Policy Directions	233
12.6	Water Transport	234
12.6.1	Shipping	234
12.6.2	Ports	234
12.6.3	Inland Water Transport	236
12.7	Issues Related to Private Sector Participation	237
12.7.1	Financing	237
12.7.2	Legal and Regulatory Aspects	238
13.	Telecommunication: Monopoly vs Competition	239
	Ajay Shah
13.1	Why Telecom is Special	239
13.2	An Economic Perspective	240
13.3	Basic Telecom in India	241
13.3.1	Telecom Policy Since 1993	242
13.3.2	Difficulties in India's Telecom	242
13.3.3	The Fundamental Flaw with Licence Fees	245
13.4	A Broader Perspective on Telecom in India	246
13.4.1	Computer Networking	246
13.5	The Way Forward	247
13.6	Telecom as a Case Study in Development Policy	248
	Bibliography	251
	Statistical Tables	259